Lady Coleridge the Portia of Baccaraters.

Feminine Aristocrats Have High Jinks During the Trial.

Side Shows that Draw as Well as the Regularly Billed Farce.

The Evidence in the Case all in-Sir Charles Russell Begins Summing Up-The Plaintiff Scored

By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, June 5.- By Cable and Associated Press. All exhibitions at theaters, musical entertainments and other such attractions have been fully eclipsed and shadowed into almost complete neglect by the interest which to obtain the necessary season tickets -and the familiar criticisms of English newspapers, to the effect that there is considerable lack of dignity in the United States courts, has been so weakened that they should never again be revived in the face of the fashionable display, luncheon exhibitions and other scenes witnessed during the progress of the baccarat case.

Lady Coleridge, wife of the Lord Chief Justice, has been seen each day seated on the bench at the right hand of her husband. entertaining ber numerous circle of friends, laughing and talking when she has not been writing notes for her husband and sending them around the court with the same freedom as if she had been at a garden party. Sir Charles Russell was obliged more than once to suspend his examination of witnesses on account of the lack of decorum displayed in the court.

FIFTH DAY OF THE TRIAL. In this, the fifth day of the trial of the famous suit, there was a repetition of the scenes of the previous day. The cross-examination of Mrs. Lycett Green was resumed. Sir Edward Clarke had asurance business; splendid opportunity the young lady go again all over the ground he covered yesterday. After some further questions, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, mother of Arthur Stanley Wils n. was called to the stand.

She testified that she was present at Tanbycroff in the room where baccarat was being played September 8. She distinctly recalled her son Arthur looking at her with a puzzled expres-sion on his face, and that afterward he sion on his face, and that afterward he made a "horrible communication to her." It was to the effect that he had seen plaintiff (Cumming) cheat while playing cards. Witness then repeated in detail the evidence which had already been given as to the manner in which the Baronet cheated. Mrs. Wilson was most emphatic in her denials that there had been any agreement entered into by the Wilson family to watch the plaintiff play on the second night (September 9,) of the baccarat playing.

Mrs. Wilson, when asked by Sir Charles Russell as to whether she had seen Cumming cheat, replied with Charles Russell as to whether she had seen Cumming cheat, replied with great emotion: "Yes, unfortunately; there is no doubt about it."

Continuing, Mrs. Wilson said that when her son told her that plaintiff had been cheating, she said: "Oh, you must not speak of it! We must not not have a scandal in our house!" not have a scandal in our house!

During the second evening's play, witness did not notice anything until she received a note from her son-law, Lycett Green, informing her of the facts discovered. Mrs. Wilson added that she recollected plaintiff osking to have an extra £10-note paid him for a £10-counter, which he claimed not to have been noticed by the Prince of Wales, and that the Prince, in his annoyance, told plaintiff to place his stakes where they could be

Referring to another occasion, Mrs. Wilson said she saw plaintiff push an extra £10-counter over the line. Mrs. Wilson then said she had an interview with the Prince of Wales on the subject the following day, and that she expressed fears that her son, Arthur Stanley Wilson, would suffer from the after effects of what had occurred, owing to the fact that he was the first person to notice and call attention to the Baronet's cheating, but she said the Prince old her there was no need for her to ford her there was no need for her to fear anything of the kind.

From September 10 until the legal proceedings commenced, Mrs. Wilson continued, she said absolutely nothing to anybody outside of those of her own family who were already acquainted with the facts regarding the scandal.

ALL FOR THE PRINCE.

Mrs Wilson was then turned over to Sir Edward Clarke for cross-examination, and in reply to the Solicitor Gention, and in reply to the Solicitor General's question, said she had not signed a paper pledging herself to secresy, but Mrs. Wilson admitted that the Prince of Wales had asked her not to say anything about the affair. Answering other questions put to her by leading ocunsel for the plaintiff. Mrs. Wilson said that on the night of September 8, the Prince of Wales asked her if it was not possible to provide a proper bacarat table for the night following. This, Mrs. Wilson explained, was before the Prince knew anything of the alleged cheating on the part of Comming. Consequently for the second night's play a fresh table was provided, but this was not done on account of Sir William Cumming, though it was hoped its use would prevent a recurrence of the eventual and the second night. Witness' husband, Arthur Wilson, Sr., she continued, objected to baccarat playing, because in nis opinion the play might become high among hot-headed boys. Laughter. On a premous occasion, she continued, the sam of £500 had got into the bank, which a mount her husband thought too large.

Wales that your husband objected to baccarat?" asked Clarke.
"Because," replied Mrs. Wilson, "we were such a staid non-gambling party that we did not think there could be much harm resulting from a few quiet games at baccarat."

Mrs. Wilson, at another stage of her cross-examination, admitted that £15 was the highest stake which she saw played on the table during the two evenings, and she did not think anybody staked even that amount until her husband did so during the second night's play.

Sir Charles Russell read entries referhas been taken in the great baccarat slow which has been presented throughout the week at the Queen's Bench division of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice. The court has been crowded daily with the smartest Loidoners—those who were able to obtain the necessary season tickets in order to avoid a seandal and to in order to avoid a scandal and in order to keep the Prince of Wales out of it. I considered I had done my duty to society so far as the case permits.

by insisting that the accused shall never play cards again." This concluded the case for the de-fense and Sir Charles Russell, on behalf of the defense addressed the jury. SCORING THE PLAINTIFF. Sir Charles Russell, in his address, severely scored Sir William Gordon Cumming. He asked how plaintiff's conduct could possibly be considered consistent with innocence. The de-fendants, he said, had been blamed for not at once publicly exposing Sir William Gordon Cumming if he was really detected in cheating; but the jury would admit that it was too much to suggest that men honorably believing themselves to be acting as plaintiff's friends should be treated as coming into court and not believing him guilty because they did not issue against him an unmerciful edict of irrevocable condemnation. Could anything be imputed to the witnesses to justify the assumption that they were not credible? He had not known in his experience five witnesses who gave such concurrent evidence which was so absolutely untouched by cross-examination.

At the conclusion of the address court adjourned to Monday next. METHODISTS CENSURE THE PRINCE. CARDIFF, June 5 .- The Methodists of South Wales adopted a resolution expressing regret at learning that the Prince of Wales took part in the game of baccarat at Tanbycroft. It adds: We respectfully submit to his Royal Highness that by his conduct he offends the religious sense of the veople, and draws the royal house from the high position in which it has stood, and tends to lessen the loving and devoted affection to the throne which has been executed by we have the statement. has been cherished by us.

LONDON, June 5.—The bacarrat revelations have stirred to the deepest deaths the whole religious world. The depths the whole religious world. The news that the Prince is a habitual gambler, taking supplies of cards and counters wherever he goes, has blasted every chance of the Nationals granting him relief from his debts. The lead-ing Baptist organ compares the Prince's taste for the racecourse and gambling with the noble example of his father, who, if living, would share the latense grief of thousands of En-

CUMMINGS DENIES A YARN. LONDON, June 5.-In an interview today Sir William Gordon Cumming denied that there was any truth in the story cabled from New York yesterday by the Balziel-Dunlap agency that he (plaintiff) was to be married shortly to Miss Florence Gardner, of New York.

LURED TO HIS DEATH.

Well-known Utah Mining Man Murdered for His Money SALT LAKE CITY, June 5 .- [By the Associated Press.] Ed Callahan, a well-known mining man, was murdered this morning on the road south of this city. He had been out to a road house with a sporting woman, and she says that while returning a masked man stepped out into the road, fired three shots at Callahan and dragged him from the buggy. When she drove back after quieting the horse, Callahan lay dead in the road, his pockets turned inside out.

He is known to have had $600 on his man to his death.

They Claim that the Neutrality Laws

By Telegraph to The Times. IQUIQUE (Chile,) June 5.—[By the Associated Press.] The machinery of the steamer Itata is in a bad state and it will require some days to put it in order again. The Junta alleges that the arms and ammunition having been transferred to the Itata near the Island of San Clemente, American law was not violated, and is making a strong representations to the United States Government with a view of getting possession of the munitions.

OPINION AT WASHINGTON. The Itata Will Not be Dealt With

Washington, June 5.—|By the Associated Press.] Secretary Tracy said that the next step will be to send the Itata back to the United States to stand trial. There is no expectation that the officers and crew of the Itata will jeopardize their liberty by returning with the vessel to San Diego; and in fact as it was reported from Mexico that the commander of the insurgent the races today. In the first race warship Esmeralda acted as captain of Itata is not likely to suffer heavily as a result of her escapade. Credence is given to the statement telegraphed from Chile that the vessel took the contraband arms and amunition from the Robert and Minnie outside United States jurisdiction. If this is true the offense against neutrality laws is minimized and it is very doubtful if a case could be made out in the present state of the uncertain construction of the law. There is little doubt that she can be held on other charges, such as conbe held on other charges, such as con-tempt of court in sailing away while under injunctions, kidnaping the mar-shal and sailing without clearance papers, but these are minor offenses, whose punishment is likely to take the shape of lines and not go to the length of forfeiture of the vessel.

Navy Department today from Admiral McCann at Iquique, was one correcting the statement as to the location of the Itata when the arms were transferred from the schooner Robert and Minnie. This transfer. the dispatch says, took place off San Clemente Islands, a few miles from the coast, instead of off San Diego harbor. The location of the transfer' may be of importance in determining the jurisdiction of the United States

THOSE BATTLES.

The Story of Chilean Combats Doubted at Washington WASHINGTON, June 5.-[By the Associated Press.] The account which six furlongs: Receiver won, Dang came from San Francisco yesterday of Knapp second, Frederick third; time a naval engagement in Valparaiso increulity at the Navy Department. Such facts as are officially known seem to discredit the story. The engagement is reported to have taken lace April 28 in the presence of foreign men-of-war. Admiral McCann was, on that date, on board the Balti-more, yet, in his report to the depart-ment on the next day he failed to mention any such event. In addition to this the department officers say they they have no doubt if the engagement with such pronounced results has taken place the news would have been promptly telegraphed to the United States instead of taking the slower course of mail steamers.

The Seminary Directors Disregard the Assembly's Veto.
NEW YORK, June 5.—[By the Associated Press. | The directors of Union Theological Seminary have met and declared their position on the question of the right of the General Assembly person. The woman is suspected of of the Presbyterian Church to veto the being the confederate who lured the transfer of Prof. Charles A. Briggs transfer of Prof. Charles A. Briggs from the chair of Hebrew to the chair of biblical theology. A resolution passed at the meeting this afternoon,

> The directors after having taken legal advice, and after due consideration see no reason to change their views of the subject of the transfer of Dr. Briggs, and Icel bound in the discharge of their duties under-the charter and constitution of the seminary to adhere to the same. The intent of the veto passed by the appeared about a week ago and that there is a shortage in his account. As soon as Fernandez disappeared his employers discovered that he had recently collected rents which he failed to hand over to the firm and had also appropriated money intrusted to him for the purpose of paying interest. The amount of the defalcation is not known yet, but it is said to be several thousand dollars. It is also said that Fernandez was married recently and has taken his bride with him.

Depew on College Education.
CINCINNATI, June 5.—A large audience gathered at P.ke's Operahouse tonight to listen to Chauncey M. Depew's speech in behalf of higher education. It was the closing event of the commencement exercises of Cincinnati University. Speaking in favor of the multiplicity of colleges in America as compared with the few in the old world he said:

EXPERT MOORE'S REPORT NO. 2

Charges of Irregularities in Office Repeated, and Talk of Beginning Prosecutions-Speeches by Forrester's Hall, on the corner of First and North Main streets at 10 o'clock yesterday morning with President Lichtenberger in the chair and Secretary Mesmer present, The special committee on incorporation, which was appointed at the last meeting, reported in favor of incorporation. The report was received and filed and the com-mittee was discharged.

On motion the incorporation papers were taken up by section and the blanks were TO LET-A NICE RESIDENCE ON W. Adams at near St. James Park. KINGERY & NEIDIG, 128 W. The meeting elected the following trustees to hold office during the ensuing year: L. Lichtenberger, Jessie Yarnell, Fred Lambourn and Joseph Mesmer of Los Angeles; J. E. McComas of Pomona, H. C. Dillon of Long Beach and E. G. Greening of Downey. The report of the Executive Committee was read and referred back.

Expert Moore then read his report No. 2, which is quite a lengthy document and goes over about the same ground as was covered by his first report. According to his report the bookkeeping is very faulty and there have been grave irregularities for years.

Just before the noon recess twenty new members were proposed and elected, when an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock.

laborers. In the school department things are carried on with a high hand. Women are paid much larger salaries here than they are back East, and they do not give any better service.

Col. Dunkelberger again got the floor and made a roar against everything in sight. He thought that investigating committees should be popointed at once and the strong arm of the Sheriff be put in motion. He moved that three committees of three each be appointed to investigate county officers, another the city officers and the third to look up the cost of managing cities of this class back East.

The motion was put and carried and the Chair appointed the following gentlemen on the City Committee: J. Dunkelberger, Al. Workman and I. A. Waldron. The Executive Committee was instructed to look after eastern cities, and the Chair announced that he will appoint the County Committee in a day or two.

Mr. Moore's report was again taken up and referred to the Executive Committee for immediate action.

and referred to the Executive Committee for immediate action.

Judge Kendrick of Downey rose at this stage in the proceedings and made quite a speech, in which he stated that he is convinced from the investigation so far that the Executive Committee is in possession of facts proving that there are irregularities in office, and the guilty parties should be prosecuted.

Color Sergt. Loomis H. Cyrenius, Pribeen reversed and now the people are the servants of the office-holders. According to the report read at this meeting Los Angeles is the rottenest institution under the sun. He referred to Aaron Smith in anything but complimentary language and said that young man holds a better position than the Governor of this State as he is drawing money from a number of sources.

Expert Moore jumped to his feet and stated that several officers should be arrested and prosecuted at once. He stated that twenty arrests should be made as the investigation so far shows that that many crimes have been committed.

Col. Dunkelburger rose and stated that one man should be arrested at once. This man, he said, held the key to all the crooked man, he said, held the key to all the crooked work that has been going on for some time past, and if he is arrested the chances are that he will "squeal" on the other fellows and give the whole thing away. He moved that the Executive Committee be instructed to arrest this man at once. The motion was put and carried, but the name was not mentioned.

The following resolution was adopted by Frank Bartlett Post at its last meeting: WHEREAS, the members of Frank Bartlett Post No. 6, G. A. R., recognizing the services rendered by the many kind friends on the last Memorial day in assisting in the beautiful work of dedicating the solutiers' monument and in spreading flowers upon the graves of our dead comrades, therefore, at a regular meeting held on last Tuesday evening, it was Rosolved, that this post express their heartfelt thanks to those who shared the day with us, especially to the vocalists who rendered such sweet music, to the various G. A. R. posts, Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans of this city, and to Dan Bidwell Post No. 140, and W. R. C. of Norwalk, who attended in a body.

The little school children who assisted the comrades in scattering flowers upon the graves are kindly remembered.

The general interest taken in the observance of the day eloquently assures us of the sympathy of a grateful people; it also assures us that they, too, remember the awful sacrifice which was made, that the Nation might live. might live.

That it was a day of special recognition was proven by the large attendance, and the interest manifested. Again we thank

A Bad Man in Trouble.

A complaint was drawn up at the request of Joseph Leiter by the District-Attorney, yesterday, for filing in the Justice Court at Newhall, in which the former prays for the arrest of George Shafner upon the charge of disturbing the peace. Leiter alleges that on Wednesday last he drove to the Saugus depot to deliver some meat, and while there said Shafner attempted to strike a boy with a chair. He expostulated with Shafner, who thereupon turned upon him and abused him for interfering. Shafner finally became very abusive to everyone in the vicinity, and broke several of the windows in the depot building in his drunken fury. He was then arrested by the station agent and held until the down train arrived, when he was sent to Los Angeles in custody of the trainmen. While under arrest Shafner threatened to burn the depot building, and told Leiter that when he got out of jail he would take a shot-gun and blow his (Leiter's) head off.

Several witnesses were examined and it was learned that Steger was a native of Austria, 71 years of age, and has been drinking hard of late. He has had no trouble with any one so far as is known, and a bruise which was found on his head was caused by falling against a boiler the other day. He has no relatives in this country. Dr. Kannor made a post mortem examination, and stated that deceased died from heart disease brought on by an excessive indulgence in liquor drinking.

Yesterday was a red letter day in the annals of society. During the afternoon and evening there was a series of perhaps the most brilliant receptions, afternoon luncheens, musicales and purties that have been recorded this season. The question of being in half a dozen places at once was a puzzling one to the society woman, Probably the most elaborate of all these entertainments was the afternoon reception given by Mrs. Wesley Clark at her handsome home, corner Twenty-third and Flower streets. The hours named were from 3 to 6 o'clock, and during that time a throng of guests were constantly coming and going. The floral decorations were superb. Great balls of roses of the choicest varieties swung from the chandeliers, arches and doorways and Indian baskets filled with roses graced ornamental tables and stands. Trailing honeysuckle vines, bamboo and waving papyrus grass gave th

EGYPTIAN SYMPOSIUM.

The elegant home of Mrs. Stillson on

The elegant home of Mrs. Stillson on Angeleno Heights was the scene of what might be termed an Egyptian art reception, yesterday afternoon. The laddes of the Ruskin Art Club, who have been studying Egyptian art, tendered the reception to the members of Mrs. Averiil's class in Egyptian history. The art lovers and the historians made up a happy and congenial company. The afternoon was largely given up to the reading of a series of papers on the scuipture, architecture, religion, temples, painting, representative women and general history of Egypt, prepared by the members of the respective clubs, as follows: Mesdames A. S. Averill, Caswell, Sartori, C. N. Flint, Collins, Woodward, Judson, Enderlein and Murphy.

Music was rendered by Miss Large and Miss Soule, and the afternoon was one of pleasure and profit. Light refreshments of tea and cake were served.

DROWNED.

George W. Howard Takes His Last Plunge into the Breakers. SANTA MONICA, June 5.—[Correspondence of The Times. | Yesterday afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock, Fred Percival, who has charge of the North Beach bath someone was drowning. He saw a body floating in the surf, and at once piunged in to help what he supposed was a struggling swimmer battling for life. He soon discovered that the party was dead, and he dragged the body ashore. Arthur Mercer, a gentleman who is summering here, then put in an appearance and assisted to carry the body into one of the bath houses.

The report of the drowning soon spread, and a large number of persons went to view the remains. As the man had evidently been dead several days, and his face was bloated and discolored, no one was able to identify him.

So the matter stood until this morning, when curiosity started another crowd to view the body. Finally, G. F. Bancroft someone was drowning. He saw a body able to identify him.

So the matter stood until this morning, when curiosity started another crowd to view the body. Finally, G. F. Bancroft identified the body as that of George W. Howard, who resided on Third street in Santa Monica. Shortly afterward, Deputy Marshal Frank Cutter learned from a Mrs. Wilson that her little daughter, Susie, had discovered a man's ciothing last Saturday morning in an unused bathhouse, near ninety-nine steps. He at once secured the clothes, and found in the pockets several papers and an envelope bearing the name of G. W. Howard.

In the meantime Marshal Barretto had telegraphed to Coroner Weldon, who came down on the first train and held an inquest. The facts elicited by the examination are substantially as related above.

There is no doubt as to the identity of Howard. The question then arose as to whether his drowning was accidental or intentional. There is nothing that in the least favors the idea of suicide. The man's wife had gone East, and he was preparing to join her at an early date. This is the testimony of Mrs. T. A. Lewis, his near neighbor, who saw him last on Thursday the 28th of May. Mrs. Sweetser, a friend of the family, also states that Howard visited her house on Thursday evening, and manifested the joy of a child in anticipation of his trip East to join his wife. There was a copy of The Thires lying on the table of the date of May 28; articles for an overland lünch were also collected and a new hat was ready for the trip. Looking still further, a partially-written letter lay on the desk, which read as follows:

"Dear Brothers Arthur and John: Have collected the $5 from Mr. Saunders for you. I will just down and dive through a few waves to clear my head from this reeling charrh before writing to you why I have so suddenly decided to go to see Mary."

Poor man! He little thought these lines would be his last. As to the circumstances of his drowning, they will never be known. The verdict of the jury is accidental drowning.

Southern California District Medical Association.

The medical convention at Santa Ana continued all day yesterday. Among those who contributed valuable papers and read them were Drs. Kieruiff, Miller, Bullard, Wikins and Hamilton from Los Angeles. Witkins and Hamilton from Los Angeles. The society closed at 4 o'clock, after which time they bad a most enjoyable drive about the country, among the orange groves, etc., and returned home Thursday night. The visit will be long remembered as an enjoyable one. The visiting members were one and all pleasantly entertained by the local brotherhood of M.D's.

The next meeting of the society will be held at Riverside.

Mining Suit from San Bernardino County.

A WOMAN HIS WEAK POINT

Writs of Habeas Corpus Denied by Judge Smith-Trouble over an Unpaid Judgment-General Court Notes.

The papers in two suits instituted against the new C rbonate Mining Company, which were commenced before Judge G. E. Otls at San Bernardino, were received for filing in the United States Circuit Court by Clerk Van Dyke yesterday, several ques-tions having arisen in the controversy which could only be settled in the latter court.

Both of these actions are brought to recover damages in the aggregate sum of $50,000, alleged to have been sustained by plaintiffs, who claim title to eighty acres of land in the S E. 4 of Sec. 8, T. 6 N., R. 4 W., S.B.M., by reason of the uniawful entry thereon by defendant without the consent of plaintiffs, or any other right therefor, on October 1, 1890. Plaintiffs further pray for an injunction against defendant, restraining an injunction against defendant, restraining it from digging, excavating or removing therefrom any ores or dirt, or in any manner interfering with said land.

The defendant in its answers to the plaintiffs' complaints, claims that the land was located on January 1, 1890, by H. T. Long, H. Robinson, Al-Couway and John Collins, who subsequently spent about $10,000 in developing their claim, and that on April 6, 1891, A. E. Davis succeeded to their right, title and interest therein, and that it therefore has a prior claim on the land in question.

An examination was held before Judge Smith in Department One yesterday after-noon, by Drs. Kannon and Kierulff, who were duly appointed as commissiners for that purpose, into the charge of insanity preferred against John Carroll, a native of Missouri, 29 years of age, by Justice P. E. King of Burbank, who brought the unfortunate youth in from that place earlier fortunate youth in from that place earlier in the day.

Carroll, however, was found to be perfectly sane except as to one particular. He imagines that a woman, whom he says he refused to marry several thousand dollars, he followed him to California with the intention of forcing him into a marriage with herself. Although he has tried every expedient he can think of to rid himself of his infatuated sweetheart, she persists in her entreaties and appears to him at all times and places, though invisible to anyone else. There being no evidence to show that Carroll had threatened to do either himself or others any harm he was discharged.

AN HAPAID JUDGMENT In Department Five yesterday Court Commissioner Pendleton reported that in Commissioner Pendieton réported that in the case of G. H. Williams vs. G. L. Dennison, the judgment rendered therein having been unpaid, the execution issued having been returned by the Sheriff whoily unsatisfied, he had summoned the defendant, Dennison, to appear before him and answer certain questions relative to his property; but that Dennison had failed to respond thereto. Upon this showing, Judge McKinley ordered that a writ of attachment issue for Dennison returnable on Monday next, bail meanwhile being fixed at $100,

In Department One yesterday Judge Smith rendered his decision in the matter of the petitions of John Powers and John O'Day for their release from the City Jail, on the ground that the law under which they had been e nvicted and sentenced by Police Judge Austin, on December 18 last, to imprisonment for 500 days each for petty larceny, had since been repealed, and there was now no statute in existence justifying their detention, denying both writs and remanding both prisoners to jail.

Judge McKinley yesterday ordered findings and judgment for the defendant in the case of G. Getenell against A. B. Wainute and Potatoes.

[Anabeim Ga etc.]

The 900-acre wainut grove south of town belonging to Messrs. Fowler, Minor, Culton, Jenes and others is looking splendidly. The trees have made more than a year's growth since heing set out last apring. made more than a year's growth since being set out last spring. There are in the neighborhood of $0,000 walnut trees set out in the tract, and on going over the place to prune the trees not a single dead tree has yet been found. Some of the trees are nine and ten feet high, and are looking as thrifty as can be. Between the young trees the owners have put in a crop of potatoes, which is now about ready to dig.

Messrs. Fowler and Miner have 220 acres in potatoes, and the other patches or the tract amount to 220 acres more, making 440 acres, one may say almost in one patch. It is claimed by experienced potato-growers that the crop will average upward of 100 sacks to the acre. At this rate the tract will produce 44,000 sacks, which at 300 sacks to the car, will go to 146 carloads.

That is potato raising.

Mr. Minor informs us that a tract of forty acres which he bought in the spring at $65 per acre will produce enough potatoes to almost pay for the land. What do our eastern friends say to that?

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

ALK ABOUT RETRENCHMENT IN CITY AFFAIRS.

Weekly Meeting of the Board of Public Works-Recommendations Adopted-The Los Angeles Street Matter.

City Assessor Hinton is rapidly closing up the assessment rolls for the present year, and, while no authoritative statement has yet been made, it is generally conceded that the amount will be several millions less than last year. By some this shortage is put as high as $8,000,000, which means a very material decrease in the revenues. Mr. Hinton has very carefully covered the field, Hinton has very carefully covered the field, and it is the opinion of experts that the work has been done in better shape than for several years past. Many cases have been caught that have heretofore escaped taxation, and while the personal property tax will probably be less than last year, for the reason that merchants are not carrying as large stocks of goods as they did a year ago, an effort will be made to partially cover the deficit by seeing that citizens pay up their taxes on personal property and make returns something like the value of their effects. The Assessor will also make an effort will be made to partially cover the deficit by seeing that citizens pay up their taxes on personal property and make returns something like the value of their effort to compel the banks to pay a fair proportion of the taxes, but whether this can be done remains to be seen.

In the meantime, these reports of a falling off in the assessment have revived the talk of retrenchment among the members of the City Council. The Councilmen do not think that the total will much exceed forty militions, even if it reaches that figure, and they are considerably worried about how to cut the expenses to keep them within the millions, even if it reaches that figure, and they are considerably worried about how to cut the expenses to keep them within the revenues. So far as known, no pian has been yet deelded upon, although the matter has been the subject of more than one informal conference. One member of the Council thinks that the expenses can be reduced at least 30 per cent., but so far h s formulated no plan to present to his fellow. Councilmen—It is probable that as soon as the City Assessor concludes his work the matter will be brought up and a committee appointed to suggest ways and means to accomplish the desired result.

Proceedings having been abandoned, the property-owners p.ying $1500 of the expenses already incurred, and the city $500, the Mayor states that he does not feel justified in withholding these claims for the reason that the property-owners themselves virtually arreed to the bills of the commissioners. The clerk of the board, Col. Schreiber, yesterday presented his demand, $290, and received his money, and now all that remains is for the commissioners to do the same, and they will also be paid. The Mayor yesterday stated that in paying these demands, he did not wish it to be construed in the nature of a precedent, but that in future he would only approve demands of this character after an investigation, and when he was satisfied that the money had been earned.

Fruit and Crops in Antelope Valley The editor of the Antelope Valley Times recently drove through this section and thus speaks of the Cole ranch, just beyond Little Rock Creek:

Their fruit trees consist of apricot, peach, prune and fig. which are loaded down with fine fruit. We were informed that the alfalfa had been cut once and that the yield was near fwo tons per acre. It is nearly ready for a second cutting. They say they will cut at least six crops, and the yield for the season will be more than ten tons per acre. This at $10 per ton would amount to an income of $100 per acre; and land that will produce the same can be bought for less than the income of the above.

Dr. Barber has just cut his three acres of alfalfa, which will yield at least two and one-half tons per acre. He will cut this alfalfa at least six times and will have in the aggregate no fewer than forty-five tons or alfalfa for the season. THE LEONIS ESTATE.

Espiritu Chijulla Establishes Her Claim.

VERDICT IN HER FAVOR

She Will Get Half the Property While the Child Nettle Pryor is Declared to Have no Claim on the Estate.

The contest over the will of Miguel Leonis, an ignorant Frenchman who died about eighteen months go from the effects of an accidental fall from a wagon white returning to his ranch from town, leaving an estate valued at over $3,0,000, which has been on trial before Judge Clark and a jury of nine for almost five weeks past, has at last been concluded.

The chief contestant was an Indian having for over thirty years past, served Leonis faithfully and well as his house-keeper, sought to establish her claim to a share of the estate, on the ground that she was his wife. Although Leonis in a special clause in his will made provision for such a contingency, by directing that she should receive a legacy only upon the condition that she made no further claim on the

A GREAT INDUSTRY.

Our Pomona correspondent gives most encouraging account of the progress that is being made in the beet sugar enterprise at Chino. Over four thousand and five hundred acres are now planted in beets, and planting is and-Ireland shows that the Emerald still going forward. By the middle of Isle continues to lose population. It the month, it is estimated that the is now under 5,000,000-600,000 less total acreage in beets will be nearly five thousand and five hundred. Sugar experts say that, in quality, the Chino beets will be superior to any yet raised in the United States. Growers expect to make from 120 to 150 per cent. net profit; that is to say, they will more than pay for their land with the profit of the first crop. The money spent on the ranch and in the factory since New Years has amounted to $113,000. The annual sugar product of this factory, is it estimated, will be $2,000,000 in value, which, in case of success, will be increased to $5,000,000. And this is only one factory. It is difficult to overestimate the importauce of this enterprise to Southern California. If successful—as there is every prospect that it will be-it will furnish just what we needed in the shape of a market for a staple crop to supplement our fruit industry. To plant an orchard and await returns needs more or less capital. What we want is a crop that costs little to plant, and which yields a return the first year. Sugar-beets will furnish that crop. It stands to reason that, as soon as the Chino enterprise has been proved a success, other factories will go up in Southern California wherever there is a good opening. There is already talk of one between Los Angeles and Santa Monica. Then we shall see the vast stretches of fertile land between this city and the ocean put under cultiva-

SHORT-SIGHTED FRUIT-GROWERS,

We publish this morning a suggestive letter from a Los Angeles county fruit-grower, in which he touches upon a vital question in connection with the California fruit business - the urgent necessity of keeping up the character of our fruits shipped to eastern markets. He shows that through the short-sighted and greedy action of many growers last season those same growers have been seriously injured by the black eve which has been given to California canned fruits through the shipments of inferior qualities, which were delivered to the canners after the choice varieties had been sold to speculators, although in many cases con tracts had been made calling for first class fruits. Fruit-growers should make a note of these remarks. In this connection, it might be menioned that the New York Commercia

Bulletin of Thursday says: It is more than probable that California packers who put in only eighteen or nine-teen pounds of raisins to the box last season will experience trouble should they repeat the practice this year. These short weights will be looked after sharply at this end of the line.

Such policy as this is suicidal in the extreme. Dealers in California fruit have had—are still having—hard work to introduce it in the East. They have to contend against high rates of transportation, against prejudices toward anything new, and against the opposition of eastern and European growers and importers. If to these diffi-culties must be added the packing of inferior and short-weight fruit, they and furnish them with pastors, par- will certainly find the task too much for them, and the industry will be thrown back for several years. Growers in every district should combine to secure, firstly, fair prices for themselves, and, secondly, just treatment of buyers in the delivery of fruit. The latter provision is, in the long run, as important to them as the former.

> THE Supervisors have passed as ordinance increasing most of the county licenses and establishing a license of $25 a month forsaloons, with a rebate of the city license within corporate limits, provided that the county license is not to be reduced below $10 a month. Later information regarding the manipulation of the Anti-Ticket Scalpers' Bill by Assemblymen Bruner and McCall, does not leave them without a shadow of excuse for their peculiar action. The bill, it is said, was drawn by the law department of the Southers Pacific Company, and was their meas ure, and was handed over to their tool to have it rushed through the Stanford Legislature, So anxious were they about it and other measures, that they summoned to the capital all of their hirelings and pap-suckers, who wore suppose to possess "fluence." The talented aspirant for all of the offices for which Estee has not mentioned-Col. H. Z. Osbeen borne of this city-expended enough of his free pass to visit Sacramento to deliver the votes which he owned. But Bruner, McCall and the waste basket-aided by Mr. Estee, closed legislative proceedings and the bill disappeared.

The Southern Pacific Company of Kentucky may learn a lesson from this experience, that the scoundrels and hirelings which it can use are as ready to betray it as they are the people on the other side.

California Canned Fruit Has Received a Black Eye in the East-The Canners Not to be Blamed.

EAGLE ROCK, June 4 .- [To the Editor of THE TIMES.] This is the season of the year when those people who own land with bearing fruit trees upon it begin to feel anxious as to the dis position of the fruit. At this time. too, the agricultural papers begin to advise the thrifty farmer to dry his own fruit or to combine and cooperate with other fruit-growers, ship the product to the northern and eastern markets and roll in the wealth which shall result from putting the full retail price into the pockets of the producer.

while the undeserving middleman and greedy commission merchant may go dig grapevine wood for a living.

Notwithstanding the plenty of advice and the brilliant promises made by the advisers, most of us who have deciduous fruit to dispose of can really bank upon three means of disposal of bank upon three means of disposal of it, viz: To dry at home, to sell to the drier or the canner. Of these three the first may as well be left out, for most of us who have tried it have generally found it very unsatisfactory.

As one whose bread and butter and shoes for the babies must come from shoes for the babies must come from the orchard, as one who expects his boys to cultivate the orchard when the old man is dead, I want to say one word for the canner of California fruit, for to the canner I look for the solution of the question of the profitable disposal of our deciduous fruit. Some fruit may be dried, of course, but dried fruit sells at a fair price only when the market is bare of canned goods, and the eastern appetite for canned goods grows greater year by year. The reputation of our State for fine fruit, too, must depend upon the quality of our canned goods. Because the average of dried fruit will always be brought down by the product put out by careless and incompetent amateurs, and by the product put out by care down by the product put out by care-less and incompetent amateurs, and by the tailings of the crop after the se-lected fruit has been put into cans; and at best dried fruit can only be sold to customers who do not represent the first-class trade and who do not pay first-class prices.

Looking to the canner as the Moses who shall lead us out of the wilderness of overproduction I want to say a word for his fair weatment.

Last season the fruit crop was short all over the East, and in consequence "everything went" in the way of fruit. The canners made big contracts at good figures (guaranteeing the quality) and made contracts with growers for the greater portion of the local crop; an army of buyers sprang up and sent out skirmishers who met the fruit-grower on his farm and offered big prices for fruit, green and dried. There was competition, which made trade for his fair treatment. was competition, which made trade lively, and the producer sold at good prices, and in a good many cases to strangers, the pirates of the fruit business, who only appear when accident or bad weather makes prices high—and sold to the pirates after making a plain and fair agreement to furnish the local cannery with a certain amount of fruit which should be of a certain quality.

What was the result of it all? Well, the fruit farmer got a good price—a big fat price, for anything that could be called fruit. The canner gottons upon tons of fruit fit only to can for pie fruit when he had contracted with the grower for fresh fruit of first quality, and made contracts in the East to furnish canned fruit also of first quality; and the prates of the fruit business tack the facet.

took the finest fruit of this section, dried it, shipped it East and made some money out of it.

Beloved, as the revivalist says (we want a revival of horse-sense) my brothers of the cultivator and stepladder, I wish to call your earnest atladder, I wish to call your earnest at-tention to the fact that nobody but the They rushed good, bad and indifferent dried fruit upon the eastern markets in a time of great scarcity. Everybody bought it and tens of thousands of people then tasted California dried fruit for the first time and viewing it as fairly representative of our product they want no more of it when anything else can be had; so that California dried fruit is a drug on the market and the prise has dropped from 20 cents to 6 cents with no bidders even at that

The canners are not much better off. The canners are not much total the fruit furnished to them not being of high quality, their output could not be first-class. The eastern market declined such fruit as not up to contract, and country was sharp canine teetn, the sharp canine teetn, the blood flows amid much furious bellowing. The young bachelors—from one to five years old—herd together in their own quarters at a respectful distance, till they are strong enough to fight for wife and home.

Solve Use for Flour.

The young bachelors—from actually obliged to pay the contracts which they had every reason to believe would prove profitable, and the word had not some of us, tempted by the offer of one-fourth of one-half cent per pound above caunery prices sold to the lagitimate fruit pound above cannery prices sold to people unknown to the legitimate fruit trade, in some cases violating plain and formal contracts by so doing. The canner put up such fruit as he got, and dumped upon the eastern market his whole season's output, very little of which was of first-class fruit. There could be only one result. Fruit canned in Southern California can today be sold in any Eastern market only under sold in any Eastern market only under a guarantee that it shall equal in qual-ity the product of specified eastern brands of established reputation. Even with such guarantee the buyer must be coaxed diligently before con-tracts can be effected. Southern California is now producing reacts can be effected.

Southern California is now producing an enormous amount of fruit, and the quantity is annually horeasing. From the experience of the past it seems very plain indeed to me that if fruit growing is to continue to be a priftable business we must keep up the reputation of our canned goods as being equal to anything on earth. In the East now, and in the great Northwest a very few years from now, our goods will come into sharp competition with the output of the eastern canneries, whose proprietors have the advantage of well-established reputations and long familiarity with all the "tricks of the trade." If the cannery, as I believe, is the one channel through which we can profitably dispose of our deciduous fruit crop, then for our own sakes more than that of the canner we must see that he is enabled to go into the New York or Chicago market with the very best of California fruit, picked at exactly the proper stage of ripeness and handled with all due care. If he highest prices in the markets of the bighest prices in the markets of the bighest prices in the markets of the world; and just so long as the fruit grower considers the canner as entitled.

The proper share the advantage of the trade."

The pews are becoming civilized, and the pulpit must keep up as advance or die. Dr. Briggs has taken one short step in advance, and before long will take another. The Presbyterian creed is dying, and others will be made. Calvanism is barbarism. On every hand are the signs of the decay of orthodoxy. The evangelical churches are denying that they ever believed in hell. Dr. Parkhurst's address reminds me of the report or my own lectures."

Last year we had a big crop of unusually good fruit, and yet our local canneries got through the season with very little profit financially and a positive loss of reputation. I want the canneries to have a fair show this year, for the man to suffer most vear, for the man to suffer most seriously from the losses of last season is the fruit-grower who felt rather emart because he made the canneries take second-class fruit at a good price Just now, it seems to me, the canner is the "only friend" of the California fruit-grower, and whether we like it or not, the canner is going to fix prices reports from the vineyardists in all parts of the State which show that the parts of the State which show that the prospects of the grape crop are most encouraging. The vines are in the very best condition. So far neither frost nor extremely hot weather has touched them and their owners are delighted with the outlook. All of the vines are heavily laden with plump fruit.

In the San Josquin Valley a few reports state that "vine hoppers" have made their appearance. These little pests resemble the grasshopper, except that they have no wings. They are quite as destructive, and when they attack the vines in large numbers they devour all but the wood. However devour all but the wood. However, they have not made their appearance in large numbers in the valley, and the vineyardists so far are not alarmed. In Los Angeles, San Diego and Orange counties the "Anaheim" vine pest has made its appearance in a few vineyards. This pest between 1885 and 1889 caused the loss of 12,000 acres of vines in the southern part of the State, but it is gradually dying out. When it makes its appearance it attacks whole vineyards at once and the vines dry up as though scorched by a blast from a furnace. Nothing arrests its progress. However, only a few vineyards have been touched so far, and it is believed that the yield of grapes in the southern part of the State will be very large this year.

General Farming in California.

In the reports of a recent meeting of the State Board of Trade a prominent citizen is credited with saying: "It is not an advantageous step for an av-erage man to come here to do general farming,'

If we admit that the old safety prin ciple does not hold here, then we must say to the world, there is no use of your coming here to buy small farms the view of equipping them with a few horses, cows, sheep and poultry, and with the intention of producing the food these animals need, while you may be growing vines and trees upon another portion of the farm. There is no chance that you can support your family wants by selling now and then laminy wants by sening now and then a young horse, a cow, a few lambs or pigs, a lot of dairy produce, a few fowls or eggs. This old-fashioned thrifty style of farming, by which people build up homes in other States and in other lands, is not practicable in California. We don't want people who think they We don't want people who think they can advance that way. "It is not an advantageous step for an average man to come here to do general farming." This is the doctrine to which we most emphatically demur. Not only is it true that California offers a chance for most satisfactory advance-ment upon small scale general farming, providing a man has means enough to make a fair start; but we really believe no part of the world of-fers such notable advantages for such work. Where can so much be gained of any crop from an acre of land in a region of sufficient rainfall, or by irri-gation from well or ditct? If this in-California, then the whole question goes with it. But, it may be said, what is the use of great production if the crop can't be sold? The answer is, that the general farmer has no great amount of any single crop to sell, and he has all around him the means for converting his crop into different forms, some of which are sure to find troductory query can be answered for California, then the whole question a local market, and to secure the lim-two of his brothers dead or dying and ited amount of ready money which is needed by a farmer who is operating Peter that he had killed his brothers upon a self-supplying policy. Of course this kind of farming cannot be followed upon dry land, but it is possi-ble now throughout a great area of the State, and every new well or new irrigating ditch increases the area available for it. It is true, perhaps, that it does not furnish so much work for the railroads as does a style of farming in which everything produced must be hauled out of the region and everything consumed must be haule in: but we have supposed that the traffic in a thickly-settled regi mall farms has always proved satisfactory.

Good |Advice. 1Chino Champion.1 The attention of the people on the Chino is again called to the necessity of guarding against the spread of fires. guarding against the spread of fires. The heavy, rank vegetation is now getting ripe and dry, and when the warm, dry weather comes it will be as dry as tinder. Scores of houses are without any protection, and should a fire get out it would be almost impossible to save them from it. Some experience has been had here with wild fire, and those who know what it is will be very careful. A strip of land plowed around buildings, trees and hay and grain is the best protection; or, if taken at the right time and handled with care, a back-fire will soon remove danger. But back-fire will soon remove danger. But a back-fire should not be attempted after the grass is thoroughly dry. People should not rest in the hope that a fire will not get out. SACRAMENTO, June 5 .- [By the As sociated Press.] Another crime was committed here last night. This afternoon the police were informed that a woman had been assaulted at a house on Twenty-second street. Officers went to the place and found a woman named Mrs. Spillman in bed in the house of Mr. Gehring. The woman presented a horrible appearance. The skull over the left eye had been carried away or crushed in and the brain protruded through the orifice. The face was covered with blood and the right eye was badly bruised.

The woman succeeded in telling the Chief of Police the story of her injuries. She said she had gone to bed last trains will be running to Springfield in about 11 o'clock there was a knock at the door. She asked who was there and a man replied that they wanted whisky. Mrs. Spillman said none was in the house, and immediately the door was burst in and three men rushed in. One of them instantly struck her over the left eye with a heavy instrument, knocking her senseless. She thinks, however, she can remember seeing the men run as soon as the blow was struck. The men were all strangers to her, and she does not think she could identify them. At 4 o'clock this morning Mrs. Zufler, a woman who was sleeping in the kitchen of Mrs. Spillman's house, heard groans and went to her aid. She called Mrs. Gehring and she was borne to the latter's house.

Late this afternoon Dr. Nichols was called in. It is not believed the woman can recover. She separated from her husband some time ago on account of domestic troubles, but says he was not one of her assailants. Chief of Police Drew believes the wound was inflicted with a batchet. There is no

ANAHEIM IRRIGATORS

Their Efforts to Make the Southern Pacific Pay Taxes.

ANAHEIM, June 5.—[By the Asset ciated Press.] The directors of the Annheim Irrigation District this morning decided to rescind the action taken Tuesday calling a meeting at Bakersfield, June 16, of delegates of irrigation districts through which the Southern Pacific passes and from which the railroad will undoubtedly ask to be excluded to escape taxation The directors decided to deny the railroad's petition to be set out of this dis-trict and will defer the conference till some time in the future. If the rail-road carries the case into the courts a conference of all the districts will be called for the purpose of taking a united stand against it. The railroad irrigation taxes in this district amount to upward of $500. If successful the railroad will pay no taxes for irriga-tion in this State. This is a very important point for irrigators.

Duncan, the American, Held for Attempting to Murder His Wife in Wales-Other News from Abroad.

By Telegraph to The Times.

LONDON, June 5.—[Copyright 1891, by the New York Associated Press.] Balfour's proposal to relax the Coercion Act will not be explicitly announced in the Commons until next week, but enough is known as to what the government intends to propose to justify the Conservatives in feeling some little pride over the results of Balfour's policy. All provisions of the Crimes Act directed against criminal conspiracy will be withdrawn, while other provisions, notably the secret inquiry section, will be retained. Balfour's first statement that there are 3019 prisoners in Ireland who were sentenced under the Crimes Act, has been the occasion, in the Unionist press, of telling contrasts with the coercion policy under Gladstone when, the prisons were full. In face of prison statistics and in face also of the fact of the absolute peace in every district of Ireland, and the cessation in the press and on the platform of expres-

Unionists' plans. The accepted Liberal explanation is that the pacification of Ireland is due as much to Gladstone's policy of con-ciliation as to Balfour's coercion.
These explanations ignore the Glad-stonian predictions when the Crimes Bill was under discussion in Parlia-ment. Doubtless a number of causes operated to associate the Balfour ré-gime with the steady cessation of disbut his administration has seen the National League broken to pieces, the plan of the campaign collapsed and coercion suspended after four years of

The Land Bill is still largely to occupy the House for a week. Balfour has sent a token of peace and good will to the evicted tenants in accepting the clause enabling a landlord to sell a holding over the head of the man in possession to an evicted tenant or his possession to an evicted tenant or his predecessor. The evicted tenants can claim preemption rights and will only be able to benefit by the clause within six months after the act passes, but the provision saves from ruin many victims of the plan of campaign.

TO EDUCATE THE NEGRO.

Recommendations of the Lake Mo-honk Conference. Lake Mononk (N. Y.,) June 5.— [By the Associated Press.] At the closing session of the Lake Mohonk Negro Conference today a recommendation was adopted suggesting that the friends of the negro, north and south, should labor in unison for the following ends: To accomplish the education of the negro by the States themselves and the further development of means and methods to this end until means and methods to this end until uegroes are creditably trained in the primary schools largely; increased support of schools to supply teachers and preachers for the negro race; greater extension of industrial education for both men and women; encouragement of secondary schools establised, maintained and conducted by negroes; the purchase of homesteads by as many negro house-homesteads by as many negro house-holds as possible, with increase in the number of decent houses to replace the old one-room cabin; the establishment by the Government of postal savings by the Government of postar savings banks; aid of public education by the National Government for the especial benefit of those sections where illiter-acy most prevails; removal of all disa-bilities, under which negroes labor, by the sure force of education, thrift and > Introducing Virgin Queens. Virgin queens, when two or more days old, are more difficult to introduce than fertile queens, but when first hatched, or a few hours old, you may let them run in at the entrance and they will be safely accepted—in fact the best time to introduce a virgin queen is when she has just hatched. e a virgin In introducing virgin queens two or more days old, keep the queen im-prisoned at least thirty-six hours. Sometimes when honey is coming in rapidly you may place a cloth in front of the hive and shake a number of bees on it, and then drop a virgin with them, and after they are are in the hive give them a good smoking.

M. E. Isham was in town Tuesday, and we had a talk with him regarding this year's fruit prospects. He states that the yield of apricots on the Ojai and generally on the Avenue promises to be very good, but in the valley, with perhaps the exception of Thorpe's orchard, the yield will be light. On the whole the crop of apricots in the county would hardly be half so large as last year. Prune trees on the Upper e Ojai promise another abundant yield, the present indications being that there will be fully as many as last year. Of walnuts there will be an immense crop, even heavier than last. Ojai promise another abundant even heavier than last year, when the yield throughout the county was greater than ever before. -{Hueneme Herald.

DR. WOH. The Eminent Chinese Physician.

Dr. Woh's life work has been from early youth one of persistent and untiring observation, study and investigation, as fully as lay in his power to perfect himself in all branches of the art of healing human sickness and disease. Born in China, of iufluential parents, of a family whose ancestors have been for generations deservingly renowned as leading physicians, Dr. Woh naturally followed in the footsteps of his fathers. In China he has practiced his profession for several years, being at one time a physician in the Imperial Hospital, and in America for a long time him great a purpose of particular his great and an analysis of the second sec long time his great number of patients, his wonderful and many cures, and the great list of letters from grateful and thank-ful patrons now prove him to be a remarkable and successful healer of sickness and all diseases.

For many years I have been troubled with lung disease, which finally ended in astimated consumption.

I consuled with the best physicians I could find but they did me no benefit, but on the contrary I got worse and worse, until I was told by oze of them I could not recover. Dr. Woh took me in this condition. He has in two months' time entir-ly cured me. I was told by oze of them I could not recover. MRS. F. WESSEL, and two months' time entir-ly cured me. Morphine Caused His Death.

Joseph V. McMahon, a well known society man in Brooklyn, recently died by poisoning at the Manhattan club, of which he was a member. He sent two prescriptions to the office of the club, with a request that a messenger have them filled immediately. They called for thirty half grain morphine pills and one ounce of laudanum, but as

An English surgeon has recorded a very peculiar case, When seven years old one of his patients swallowed a pin. The sharp pain which followed soon passed off, and nothing more was thought of the matter. Twenty-four years afterward the man developed symptoms of consumption; he was troubled with a constant cough and huskiness of voice. All the remedies tried failed to give relief. One day after a severe fit of coughing a hard dark object was expelled. This proved to be the forgotten pin, which must have remained imbedded in the larynx ever since the accident. The symptoms of consumption disappeared and the man was restored to health. A Pin, Not Consumption, Ailed Him.

Yesterday was properly styled "visitors' day" at the Wilson Grammar school, for the visitors were out in full force and had everything their own way. The big building was prettily trimmed with flowers which added much to its attractiveness. The exhibits of the past year's work were displayed for inspection in the several departments and in the main hallway. They were similar to those of the other schools, where the annual exhibition days had previously been held, except in the eighth year and high except in the eighth year and high school grades, where the drawings were of a superior order. The sub-jects treated include zoölogy, physi-glogy, physics, original designs in surorations and perspective work. ne of the drawings were colored in a highly artistic manner. In the last years of the Eighth cent ury there reigned in Bagdad the Caliph Abulfeda. Into the coffers of his predecessors the wealth of the east had poured with a most unsparing hand, and the magnificent "City of the Enchantress" was not only the "Abode of Peace." but a splendid jewel in the Empire of the Faithful.

Of all the caliphs of this wonderful city since Almansor, its founder, no two had blessed or cursed the world with the same idea of what it was necessary that man should do to enjoy life this world, and at death to be worthy of a place among the dark eyed damsels and beautiful youths of the gardens of Paradise.

The magnificent Almamoun scattere his inestimable wealth in the greatest contrast with the abstemiousne frugality of the mighty Omar: and the different from the Akbah, whose fanation advance only the heaving waves of the Atlantic were able to hinder.

The Caliph Abulfeda had succ The Campa Abuneua has succeeded, his father, whose desire to gather the gold of the then known world into Bagdad, without expending it for any purpose, had put the youthful prince to many disadvantages, and fostered in him the desire to do otherwise when he the desire to do otherwise when he would succeed to the mantle of the prophet. Therefore when his own sons were choosing their ends or pleasures the Caliph Abulfeda was always ready to forward or indulge them. Among the youngest of his many chil-dren was Ali. For years he had brooded over and planned on the idea of a wonderful edifice that he hoped in time to construct. Of all the magnificent structures it had been his privilege as a son of the Commander of the Faithful to see, none was in all things the perfection of which the young prince dreamed. Therefore, on the death of his father, the prince began the building of the long de-

the river the most wonderful architect-ural dream that even that magic age and that wonderful city had prod Yet to the prince it was unfinished; something was yet lacking to make it the abode of perfect pleasure.

One evening the prince was saunter-ing along one of the most magnificent of the curiously carved arcades of the palace when a voice called his name:
"Prince Ali! son of Abulfeda! Prince

Ali! son of Abulfeda!" The young prince glanced quickly around on all ples, but beheld no one except the silent sentinels on guard around the palace and the pictu horsemen that, at a little distance, rode slowly back and forth as safeguards against approaching danger.

Again came the voice: "Prince Ali! son of Abulfeda! Prince Ali! son of Abulfeda!"

"Prince Ali! son of Abulfeda!" he "I am," assented Prince Ali, scarcely knowing whether to tower up to his full height and answer with the pride he felt in his noble name, or acknowledge his inferiority before a higher power. "I know you, I know you," answered the aged man. "I knew your honored father and your father's fathers, and"a supernatural expression spread his visage—"and I stood side by side with the prophet himself in many a dearly won fight with the enemies of the only true belief. But I wronged him. I did him an injustice, and therefore is my slumber in the tomb dis-turbed. When the Commander of the Faithful, or one of his children, has an earnest longing or desire, I, or some other who has wronged the prophet, is called from the tomb, in answer to their

"Be it then as you desire," answere the aged father. "Behold this staff. Ask not from whence it came, nor discover the mystery to any living man, until I return for its possession."

The prince took the staff and looked it curiously over, but nothing extraordinary occurred. Seeing his expectancy the aged man continued:

"The followers of the good man Jesus, whom the Christians believe, and the worshipers of the stars and moon, and the elements, and other works and do ings of the one and only God-for there is but one God, and Mohammed is his prophet—have images beautiful to be hold, yet far from the handiwork of the creator. To us is forbidden such images. Would you fill the structure you have built with more wonderful images, beyond the construction or understanding of mankind?"

"I would! I would!" exclaimed the prince, delighted with the expectation.

wered the strange visitor, and vanished. For several minutes the prince stood as if awakened from a dream. But not long, for just at that moment a young girl, a favorite with the prince, came on tiptoe behind him. Noiselessly, as the soft breeze that scarce moved the dark hair that fell uncontrolled over her white ulders, she crept up, and was about to clasp her small hands over his eyes, when the prince, seeing the shadow, and excited by the strange visitor who had just left him, wheeled suddenly around, and in doing so touched the laughing girl with his staff As a statue of the whitest marble, she stood before him.

As the prince stood wondering at the magic power of the apparently common-place staff, a courier approached in all ste with a message from a distant province governed by a very dear friend of Prince Ali. The breathless messenger fell on his face before the prince, and after salaming after the manner of the day and re-covering breath enough to speak, he egged the pardon of the prince for first exacting a promise of secrecy in regard to the matter upon which he had been sent, it being his master's special order. In his anxiety the prince raised the hand that held the staff and placed it on the shoulder of the exhausted m and he, too, was marble. As the days went by the palace filled with strange images, and the possessor of the wonderful staff began to long for the supernatural donor. The possession of his gift began to be a weight, and each image added to the palace was a weight added to the burden of its ruler.

Still the longed for visitor came no At last, when the prince was almost driven to madness, his strange visitor again appeared. Before he could ask a question of the descendant of the great Mahmoud the staff was thrust into his hands and he was prayed by the memory of the great leader to restore to life the silent images that, instead of adorning, cast a gloom over the palace.

"Is that not beautiful?" asked the strange visitor, pointing to the figure of the mischievous girl favorite. "Look at the grace, the smile almost bursting into laughter." "It is beautiful, most beautiful," an swered the prince, "but her laugh would be to me more beautiful than all."

"And that!" exclaimed the aged man. "Look how natural that courier is about "Most natural, most natural," sighed the prince, "but the unspoken message is locked in that marble breast." To several others the strange visitor drew the shrinking prince, and com-mented on the peculiar beauty of each. But the prince could not be diverted from the melancholy that possessed him exclaimed the prince. "Leave my pal-ace as it was and I will be happy, perfectly happy!" "Be it as you say," answered the aged nan, "and profit by the lesson." There was a slight rustle in the courts of the palace, and when it passed all was as it had been; even the strange visitor himself was gone. The palace of Prince Ali of Bagdad stood for ages as it was erected, except this inscription over the main entrar

"Take them away! Take them away!

PRESIDENT WELLS EXPLAINS

Another Report from the Chicago Orange Carnival Committee-The Accounts to ba Again

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce met last night with President Germain in the chair and Secret ry Willard present. After some discussion as to the financial condition of the chamber, the following Committee of Investigation was appointed: R. McGarvin, C. N. Flint and W. W. Howard. This committee will go over the books of the institution and make

Mr. Wells then explained the case and furnished the following statement for the

MR. WELLS' STATEMENT. The bazar of the Second Baptist Church closed last evening. The entertainment was well attended during the entire three nights, and quite a sum was realized for the church. Chicago was placed, made a complete financial report. Not only was a general sum-mary of receipts and expenditures given, together with the balance in bank, but also together with the balance in bank, but also an itemized statement, covering a large field of details. There was also submitted for the benefit of the public, who could not be expected to go through all the bills, receipts, vouchers and account books, a careful and explicit series of comments on every item in the list of expenditures. These reports, in typewritten form, were turned over to the newspapers, together with the announcement that all documents connected with the business were at the Chamber of Commerce rooms for the inspection of anyone who cared to look them over. Chamber of Commerce rooms for the inspec-tion of anyone who cared to look them over. The general committee received these re-ports, adopted them as their own and by a unanimous vote-expressed their gratifica-tion at the outcome of the carnival and their thanks to the Executive Committee for th

tion at the outcome of the carnival and their thanks to the Executive Committee for the efficiency of their work. A number of the establitors who were present expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the results achieved and maintained; that if any faultfinding was to be done it should come from those who were on the ground and familiar with the conditions under which the carnival was held, and who, moreover, had speut their time and money in its behalf.

With regard to criticism passed upon us before this report was published we maintained silence for the reason that we had held ourselves re ponsible first to the general committee from whomour appointment came. The criticisms were, moreover, based upon rumors and in many instances were palpably absurd. Criticisms offered since the publication of the report, and purporting to be based upon it, cannot be ignored.

The committee devoted several weeks of time and risked their health, and, as the accounts show, $1000 in money is the entire prize. It is not asking for thanks; it does, however, demand that those who desire to criticize its conduct should first inform themselves as to the facts and then exercise a reasonable degree of fairness in their comments.

The statement that there was ever at any time a deficit of $1400 is absolutely and unequivocally false.

The observations which have been made about this employment of a celored boy to take care of the offices and wait on guests were best answered by a delegate of Rivera, yesterday, who said to the committee that if such an expense could not have been afforded he would rather have paid it out of his own pockets than to have endeavored to get along without it. This criticism, like several others that have been offered, seem trivial and unworthy of an answer.

The San Francisco papers estimate that some sensational facts will come to light regarding the animus of Superintendent Bassett's removal from his position at the operating head of the Southern Pacific coast line, by President C.
